

Master of Education

(Leadership)

The Master of Education (Leadership) program engages students in critically examining, refining, and transforming educational discourse and practice through a biblical lens. This course equips students to reimagine, develop, and lead flourishing, hope-filled learning communities, contributing to the task of transformative education.

Designed primarily for school leaders and classroom practitioners seeking to develop their leadership skills, this program fosters reflective practice, critical thinking, and effective communication within Christian education. Participants will refine their leadership craft by deeply engaging with contemporary educational challenges from a faith-based perspective. The course includes research options.

The course is primarily accessed through our Learning Management System (LMS), Moodle, with live class gatherings online offered, providing study flexibility. Assessments are varied and allow students to apply their learning within their local educational context.

As the postgraduate provider within Christian Education National (CEN), the National Institute for Christian Education fosters a supportive scholarly learning community. Even in a distance-learning environment, students benefit from regular interaction, collaboration, and mentorship alongside like-minded peers. They will also have access to highly qualified senior lecturers and experienced Christian educators, ensuring both academic and practical support throughout their journey.
